

Greece is one of the oldest wine-producing regions in the world. The earliest evidence of Greek wine has been dated to 6,500 years ago where wine was produced on a household or communal basis.

In recent years, the Greek wine industry has undergone tremendous improvements with serious investments in modern wine making technology.

What makes Greek wine so unique are the more than 300 indigenous grape varieties

This extensive variety of grapes together with the moderate Greek climate, plentiful sunshine, low average rainfall and soils of moderate fertility combine to provide an excellent environment for the production of high quality wines.
